FIRE, one of the perennial problems of Carmel Valley, hit the mid valley area late Wednesday afternoon, just east of the shopping center. Begining as a grass fire, it spread to the Farm Center and jumped the Carmel Valley Road to Tierra Grande. No structural damage was sustained, and the fire was effectively out before dusk. Gem and mineral show Sept. 25

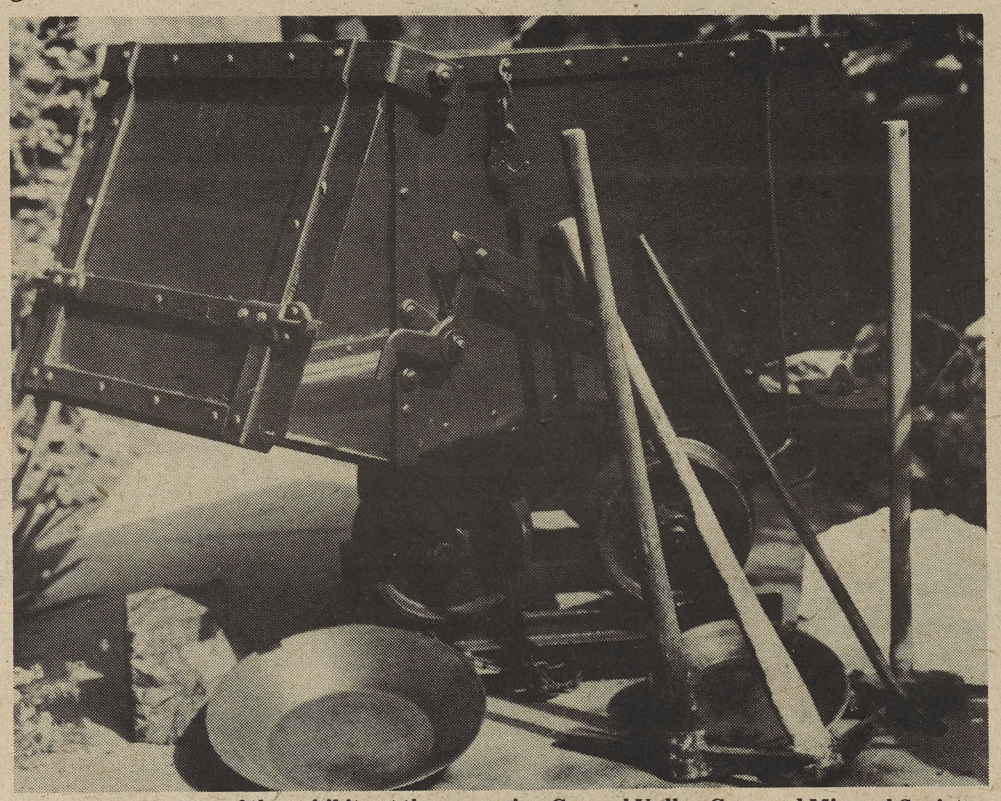
"Gemstone Bonanza" is the theme for the 17th annual gem and mineral show sponsored by the Carmel Valley Gem and Mineral Society, at the Monterey County Fairgrounds, on September 25th and 26th.



A traux ore car, one of the exhibits at the upcoming Carmel Valley Gem and Mineral Society show on Sept. 25 and 26 in Monterey.

Featured will be working demonstrations in the making of arrowheads by Harold Main, Indian history researcher and collector of Indian artifacts; faceting by Bartley Arbing, winner of both the California Federation and American Federation trophy for his case of faceted stones. Roscoe Russell, a pupil of the late Jo Mora, will demonstrate handwrought silver engraving. He will also show his sterling silver handmade combs and ivory carvings set in silver and precious stones. Russell is one of the few silversmiths who still does hand engraving, and his work is well known throughout the country.

Exhibits will include outstandingly beautiful handcrafted jewelry, and lost wax castings; exquisite sculptures; Japanese Suiseki; a geode waterfall; a bicentennial case with jewelry made of red, white and blue stones; a fossil display of Hunter Liggett whalebone; a beautiful Indian basket made from pine needles; and a display case of thumbnail minerals, winner of the California American Federation trophy.

The emblem on the side of the Truax car bears the name of its founder, early California prospector George Truax. The Truax car as well as other mining paraphenellia will be on display at the Gem and Mineral Society Show to be held at the Monterey County Fairgrounds Sept. 24 and 25.

A stamp collection featuring minerals, with matching mineral specimens, will be exhibited by Arlie Hatfield of Marina.

Betty Keator, of Pacific Grove, will enter her prize-winning case of flourite mineral specimens, and Cal Keator will show his Truax ore car, which was used in the Rocky Mountains Pioneer mines.

Pacific Grove geologist, Paul Patchick, will enter his collection of prize-winning crystalized minerals. In addition to being a National Award winner, he has won three first prizes in the California Federation, as well as numerous other prizes for his outstanding collections.

Scouts, under the supervision of a scoutmaster, are invited to attend free of charge from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m., September 25th.

There will be a drawing hourly for door prizes of lapidary items. Delicious food and drink will be available at the snack bar.

from our readers' point of view

Dear Editor:

My husband and I feel an obligation to share with other parents of children in the local school systems our deep gratification at the schedule that is being offered our son at Carmel High School this year.

So often one hears criticisms of the modern schools that we think a positive experience should be publicized.

On the "even" days our son has U.S. History first period, softball second period, free time third, fourth, fifth, and sixth periods. This means that for the balance of his school day he is free to find any enriching experiences he fancies, like wandering around Carmel, drinking soft drinks, or even beer, going bowling, "cruising" with his friends.

On "odd" days he has U.S. History first period, softball second period, free time third and fourth periods and woodshop fifth and sixth periods. His freedom is slightly curtailed on these days, we do admit.

He has an after-school job, for which he gets credit as "work experience." As he is very well paid for this job the school credit is a nice addition.

We are so grateful for this schedule. Our son is learning about great literature reading comic books, he is being exposed to great music — the rock on his casettes, he is learning about government and politics, and having many experiences that will help him grow up into a good citizen.

Free swim classes

A free opportunity to learn the basic fundamentals of AAU competitive synchronized swimming is being offered to female swimmers of the Monterey Peninsula between the ages of 8 and 16 starting this week.

Three weeks of free instruction, taught by the coaching staff of the award-winning Cypress Swim Club, will be conducted at various pools on the Monterey Peninsula beginning on Tuesday. Interested swimmers are invited to register by telephoning Mrs. Douglas Pease at 659-4720 or Mrs. Sherwin Friedman at 649-0519.

The Cypress Swim Club is a non-profit educational youth group voluntarily coached by Donn Squire, former Men's Sr. National AAU Solo Champion, assisted by Carol Dentch, formerly the top coach in Florida, and Del Neel, National AAU Officials' Chairman for Synchronized Swimming. They will be assisted by regional and national champions in the free training sessions offered three times weekly during September.

California Dairy Princess Susan Dutra treats Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Peace of Carmel Valley to some cheese samples at the famed Tillamook cheese factory in Oregon. The Peaces were on vacation in Oregon and visited the factory which has been in operation since 1860 when sailing vessels were used to transport the cheese to market.

Cachagua master plan presented

The Cachagua Master Plan Advisory Committee was established a year ago by the Monterey County Board of Supervisors to study the Cachagua area and make recommendations toward the development of a new master plan. This Committee has now prepared their preliminary recommendations and will give them final review at a public meeting to be held in the Carmel Valley Community Center next to Tularcitos School at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, September 16th. This meeting concludes the Committee's assigned task and will result in final recommendations which will be taken to the Board for their consideration and probable referral to the Planning Commission and the planning staff for final preparation.

Community Chapel Sunday School

Carmel Valley Community Chapel, on Village Drive, began its fall Sunday School program September 12. Worship service at 10:45 each week followed by classes for Kindergarten, one through three, four and five, Jr. High and up. Parents are invited to attend the worship service if they would like to stay any or all weeks. Pre-school nursery care is provided for the Sunday School worship service as well as for the Church service which is from 11:00-12:00. Information: 659-4482, Mrs. Lee.

Election officials needed

Deputy registrars and election officials are needed by the Monterey County Election Department. Persons who would like to assist in registering voters, or serving as an official on election day, Nov. 2, especially bilingual individuals, are needed to perform these public service jobs.

Interested individuals may contact the Election Department on 201 Main St. in Salinas, phone 424-7621. Under California and Federal law, one bilingual official is required to be at all polling places on election day, and Registrar Kenneth Webb is appealing to the citizens to help the County meet this requirement.

Golden anniversary

The fiftieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Wilson, Laurel Drive, Carmel Valley, was observed with a celebration on September eighth.

The Wilsons, affectionately known by their host of friends as "Hank and Fran" were married on that date in 1926 at the summer home of Mrs. Wilson's parents at Rothesay, New Brunswick, Canada. Mr. Wilson, a recent graduate of Princeton University, brought his bride to live at Cranbury, New Jersey.

The Wilsons came to the Valley from Piedmont seven years ago, purchased their present home, and have been active in community affairs.

Preceding a gala dinner at a local restaurant, Mrs. Melvin Rich, 51 Sage Road, entertained with a cocktail party where many fine toasts of tribute to their Golden Years were offered.

Following dinner, the group was invited to the home of Mrs. Phillip Walker for a last course, a sumptuous anniversary cake.

Their sons, David John Wilson of Fresno, Calif. and Henry S. Wilson, Jr. of Providence, Rhode Island, arrived in the Valley the week preceding the party to bring personal congratulations to their parents.

Barracudas travel

High on the list of priorities for members of the Carmel Barracuda Swim and Diving Team is the End-'o-summer trip. Experiences recalled — and retold — from last season's "Appreciation Day" at Travis Air Force Base, generated excitement to a new pitch before three tour buses rolled north early Saturday morning bound for Marriott's Great America.

Divided into gropus with older teammates responsible for the five to eleven year olds, it was a full day of shows, shops, and sensational rides to be found in the amusement park's five fun areas; Yankee Harbor, Orleans Place, Hometown Square, Yukon Territory and County Fair. Everyone returned to the buses at 5:00 p.m. — including the two chaperones who had been stranded in a gondola of the skyride — ready for the next leg of the journey to Fort Funston, where arrangements had been made for overnight accommodations.

Located just five minutes from Fleishacker Zoo, it is difficult to remember that the former Coast Artillery base above a beautiful stretch of lonely California coastline is but a few blocks from a city teeming with people. Easy access by auto to the 300 foot cliffs attracts members of the Hang Gliding cult, who launch themselves in their multi-colored crafts from an abandoned anti-aircraft installation, to dip and hover like mammoth moths between the cliffs and the ocean.

Bearing the name of Major General Fredrick Funston who gained fame for capturing the Philippine Guerilla leader, Aguinaldo in 1901; and charged with restoring order to San Francisco following the 1906 earthquake, the abandoned Fort has been transferred to the Park Department for a future recreation site.

Presently the few remaining buildings have been vandalized and fallen into disrepair, but a large barracks was commandeered by Aquatic guests who found space for some 180 sleeping bags on the cement floors.

When it was discovered there were no kitchen facilities, David Hardy, a father accompanying the group, improvised with a bon fire in the middle of a base street over which swim parents, Lyde and Lee Mink kept two rotating pots of spaghetti boiling until the travelers had eaten their fill of spaghetti and sourdough bread.

The long night — a hilarious replay of an early Hollywood Comedy, directed by the late Max Sennett (who "came back" for the unbelievable occasion) found coaches and parents in bit-player roles with the stars of the cast; a plumber, an electrician, and an environmental expert, arriving after midnight in a truck complete with siren and red lights to rescue the Fort from backed up plumbing and a nearby overflowing reservoir which threatened to wash the temporary residents of the Fort out to sea on the wave of its 33,000 gallon water capacity!

Following breakfast for the troops the next morning, a large group was accompanied to church by the Dick Falges; followed by a tour of Fleishacker Zoo led by coaches Cyn Satchell, Chaco Mohler, and Scott Rose and parents who included the Minks, Mrs. Margaret Bennett, Mrs. Mildred Hattan, and Dick Falge.

Returning to the Fort for a hamburger luncheon served by Coaches Larry Challis and Rich Holine and parents, Mrs. Hilmi Voskay, Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Lazanof and Dr. and Mrs. Daryl Jewett the buses were boarded for a tour of 400 fascinating exhibits in the Exploratorium located in the Palace of Fine Arts.

It was an exhausting trip, but funfilled, agreed the chaperones, because the young people with an age span from five to 18 were so cooperative and adaptable to so many totally different situations.

Jazz artist visits

Fall in our area heralds the annual return of Monarch butterflies, college and high school football, and "all that jazz." In addition to the Monterey Jazz Festival, a rare treat awaits music fans at Hidden Valley on October 13 when Bob Dorough, New York Jazz musician will present a delightful program — a mixture of Jazz styles.

Mr. Dorough, who will be the houseguest of long time Valley friends, Hannah and Kirk Davidson, is well known as a singer, pianist and composer of "Multiplication Rock" and "Grammar Rock" which typify the programming of his animated television series seen on the ABC network on Saturday mornings.

Mr. Dorough who appears in New York and at the Newport Jazz Festival agreed to the Valley appearance between

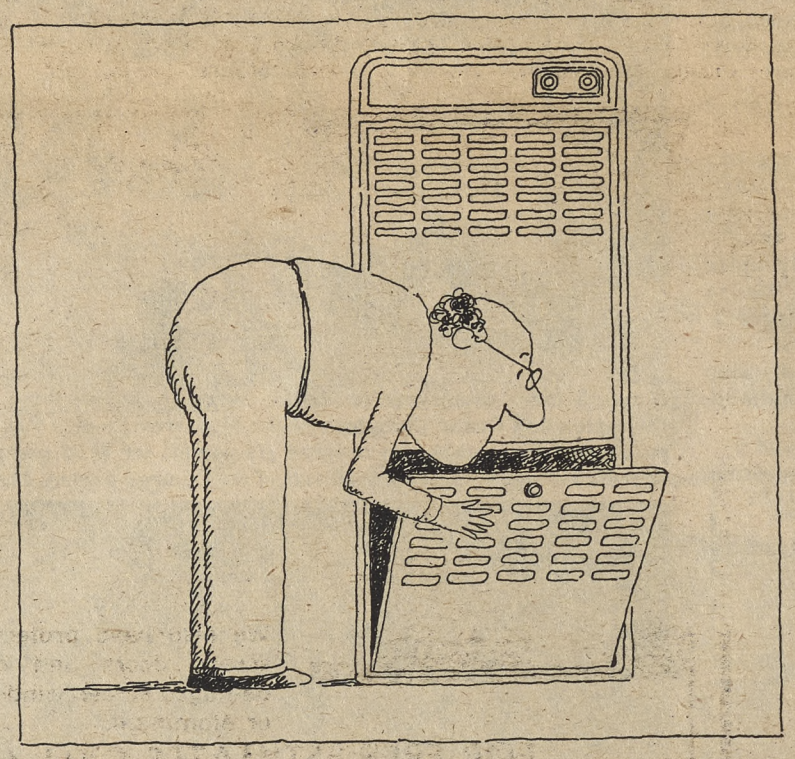
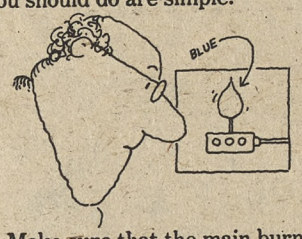
It's time you and your gas furnace started doing things for each other.



Winter's coming. As it always does. And now is the time to check your gas furnace, so you can keep the home fires burning more efficiently.

For the most part, the things you should do are simple.

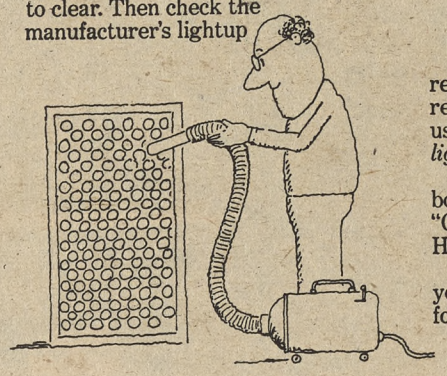


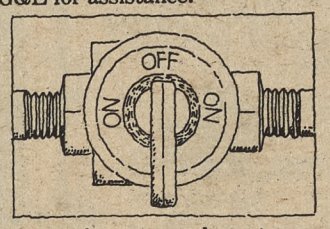
Make sure that the main burner flame is burning blue, not yellow. Otherwise, it may be using more gas, and producing less heat.

If you have a wall furnace, see that the area around the air openings and controls are free of lint and dust; if you see accumulations of what appear to be soot, you need the help of an expert.

If you have a central furnace, clean or replace the air filter now, and at least once more during the heating season. A clogged filter wastes energy and increases heating costs.

If the pilot is out, turn the thermostat to the lowest possible setting before relighting, make sure the main burner valve and the pilot valve are turned off and allow a few minutes for the gas to clear. Then check the manufacturer's lightup instructions which appear on most furnaces. Once the pilot is ignited, reset the thermostat to 68° or lower. If you're uneasy about it, call PG&E for assistance.





If your furnace needs parts or repairs, call a qualified furnace repair service. If you smell gas, call us. Never look for a gas leak with a lighted match or other flame.

For more information, ask for our booklets, "At Your Service" and "Gas and Electric Safety in Your Home," at your local PG&E office.

With just a little loving care, you and your furnace will be ready for a long, warm winter.

Ice cream social

Wearing straw hats and garters on their shirt sleeves young people of the church hand cranked eleven freezers and three electric ones filled with six flavors of ice cream; while "Safeway Sue" entertained the appreciative guests with old time favorites in her best ragtime piano style.

The event marked the end of the summer holiday and the first session of fall Sunday School classes.

MPVS distribute funds

The Monterey County Symphony Guild's president, Mrs. Cecil H. Barker, was presented a check for $5,861.41 at the September meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services. Mrs. David Lumsden, chairman of the MPVS Thrift Shop, stated that the sum was the total proceeds of the Guild's recent September sale at the shop.

Other donations were made to National Council of Alcoholism in the amount of $1,000, for the purchase of educational materials for the Monterey County Branch; $600 toward the purchase of an electric typewriter for the Carmel Foundation; $1,000 to help purchase a new truck for the Carmel Youth Center; and $1,000 for refurbishings for Beacon House.

MPVS president, Mrs. John Power of Carmel Valley with Mrs. Thomas Hardy of Carmel, who has been named chairman of the MPVS Fall Sale, and several committee members were at the Monterey Fairgrounds early this week to make plans for the sale on October 23. Fall colors and autumn decorations will be the theme of the sale.

Padre parents board meet

Back to School Night was set for October 4 when the Padre Parents hold their first meeting for an overview discussion of the coming year.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Meyers, co-presidents and membership chairman, Mrs. Richard (Mary Kaye) King, urge parents and friends of Carmel High to send their $2.00 membership dues, which will be used to purchase a prize for the class credited with the most memberships.

For the classic film festival, 10 of the world's greatest plays as produced on film have been selected for this series and one film will be shown on the second Tuesday of each month starting in September and continuing through June.

Performances will begin at 7:30 p.m. and a season ticket admitting the holder to all of the ten filmed plays may be purchased for only $10 at the Sunset Center manager's office. Those who prefer to buy individual tickets at each performance may obtain them at $2 for each film at the door on the night of the performance.

Brown Bag Cinema, Sunset Center's noontime luncheon movie program will be presented on the third Thursday of each month from now until June. The program starts on Thursday, September 16, at 12:30 p.m.

Everyone who would like to attend is invited to bring a Brown Bag Lunch to enjoy with others in an old-fashioned spirit of community and neighborliness on the Sunset Center patio (indoors if the weather is bad) with free coffee supplied by the Center.

Immediately after lunch carefully selected films from the superb collection of Time-Life will be shown in the Sunset Center Theatre, also free. The films to be shown at the first Brown Bag Cinema meeting are:

1. "No Place Like Earth." In these days when we see close-up photos of Mars, it is timely to discover how our planet differs from those others that we know about. This film simulates a trip in an unmanned space ship, a trip actually planned for this decade.

2. John Berger, enfant terrible of British art criticism, has made a series of films. This one merges art with commerce relating the nature of advertising to the tradition of oil painting. Truly designed to "enhance your way of seeing."

Those who plan to come should note that both the Carmel Point and the Carmel Rancho buses stop at the Sunset Center corner, San Carlos and 8th.

Roman Polanski is at it again. The contemporary mastre of the macabre has directed, starred and inked the screenplay for "The Tenant" — a chilling study of an individual's gradual immersion into insanity now playing at the Cinema 70.

Polanski's message is certainly not cut and dry. There are no ready answers for many of the incidents that occur to a businessman who becomes the tenant of an apartment vacated by the suicidal leap of it's previous occupant. If there is an answer that one seeks throughout the movie it centers around the query, "When does the usual become the unusual?"

Polanski's chilling methods of suspense concentrate on the sterility of the main character who gets by in life with the bare essentials. He seems to say that life is mechanical and any intensive straying from our everyday norm can lead us to insanity.

"The Tenant" is not for those seeking a horror story with gimmicks and quick answers. Its psychological ramifications are deep and totally overpower the presence of such top drawer actors as Isabelle Adjani, Melvyn Douglas and Shelley Winters. It is a film for the buff and not for one seeking explainable and banal entertainment.

Frank Colburn is leaving KDON and moving to Seattle to become Program Coordinator for KVI-FM. KVI is Golden West Broadcasting's first plunge into the FM airwaves. Frank is scheduled to arrive in Seattle on the 26th and the station will return to the air in late October... Erik Zobler, the brother of Peninsula folk artist Jon Zobler, is now working for CBS Studios in San Francisco as a sound man and engineer. Erik's a real mover. He's already mentioned on the jacket of the new Sly album.

Bryan Diamond will remember last Saturday eve at the Hatchcover for a while. It was Bryan's twentieth birthday and a large contingent of friends and family took over the front tables and passed out birthday cake to the overflow crowd. In addition, a giant wall poster was unveiled to the audience showing Bryan playing a guitar when he was four and the wording "Now Appearing Bryan Diamond" etched on the top corner.

Bryan plays with Osprey — a tightly knit acoustic unit featuring Julie Domac, Kathy Reclusada and Laurie Weber — and the ladies gave the birthday lad a guitar strap made of leather featuring various snakeskins made by David Manchel of the Skin Game shop.

Vicki and Paul have returned to the Holiday Inn, Monterey for a third time — this time for a two month stay. If you haven't caught this top duo in their previous appearances on the Peninsula and you like to dance, then head over any evening Tuesday through Saturday and be ready for high energy and tasty arranging. More on V&P's return in a future column.

Community Theatre

Two perceptive social commentaries

The Community Theatre is currently offering an engrossing and entertaining evening to theatre-goers. It consists of two short plays which are comedies in format but perceptive social commentaries in their bite.

Both plays deal unblushingly with the nature of human relationships — real, imagined, concealed, or expected. Consequently, both are funny, in different ways, although one is a comedy and the other is a tragedy. (There may be disagreement about which is which.) Each play can stand on its own merits, but together they make a delightful and provocative evening.

The Preliminary is A.R. Gurney's "The Golden Fleece." It manages to successfully update the myth of Jason and Medea to the present. While being faithful to the original, it becomes a startling allegory of suburban middle-class America, with only hints of surrealism. It sounds unlikely but works quite well.

Nancy Snow and Dick Vreeland are well-matched and believable as the married couple who are friends of Jason and Medea. Their characters develop consistently and in depth, while they also develop the offstage characters of Jason and Medea — a difficult accomplishment.

However, the show would be improved artistically if the principals weren't quite so well-matched: everything is played at about the same level. The climax comes from the script rather than from the actors.

The Main Bout is "Crawling Arnold," by the inimitable Jules Feiffer. Calling it "social satire" is to sell it rather short: it is too compassionate to be mere satire. And besides, it is barely exaggerated. (This writer is sure he knows Feiffer's prototypes personally. In Pasadena in the 1950's...)

Angelo Bourdon is magnificent in the title role. It is perhaps ludicrous to attribute masterful stage-movement to an actor who never stands on his feet, or even sits on his bottom, but Bourdon earns the accolade. Besides, he can do two or three funny things simultaneously, in character, and still throw out pearls of wisdom. Any man who can relate convincingly to a stuffed rabbit and a sexy blonde at the same time has to be a real actor!

Monica Lavelle is also excellent as Miss Sympathy, the social worker (blonde). Her conflicting loyalties and motives — clinical detachment, dedication to helping the maladjusted, reverence for Law, and ultimately warm femaleness — tumble around with almost weakening realism.

Diane Trovato as Millie, the Latin maid, has some wonderfully devastating vignettes. She affirms the old dictum that there are no small parts (there are only small actors).

Jeff Hudelson and Carroll Moorer, as Arnold's parents, are good but somewhat overstated. One may suspect the director, Paul Ventura, of a generational bias, resulting in one- or two-dimensional parents. (Suggestion: reduce the stated age of the parents by twenty years. The rest of the play is believable, so why not that?)

This writer, and others in the audience, laughed uproariously during much of "Crawling Arnold" and some of "The Golden Fleece." But there were others who had little visible reaction. Can those stone-faced audients have been some more of Feiffer's creations? The possibility is a bit frightening.

The simple setting and costumes were excellent, the lighting passable, and the staging mixed. In "Crawling Arnold" some of the best scenes were blocked flat on the floor, where only the first row could see clearly, instead of on the upper level where everyone could have enjoyed them. Mr. Ventura is a talented young director, but could benefit from learning to balance his intellect with a practical use of stage space, on behalf of the audience.

In sum, the production is recommended to all intelligent adults with a sense of humor and a love of life. Hypocrites and foursquares should stay home and watch television. "Crawling Arnold" and "The Golden Fleece" will be playing Friday and Saturday evenings at eight o'clock, behind and below at the Sunset Center. Come and enjoy.

'Thousand Clowns' at Cannery Row

"A Thousand Clowns," a comedy about the taming of a carefree bohemian who has sniffed at making a living on the world's terms, is the new attraction at the Cannery Row Dinner Theatre.

Bob Lester stars as Murray Burns (the role originated in New York by Jason Robards, Jr.), a television writer who has thrown up his well-paying job because of his conviction that life should be enjoyed and not just endured. He has resigned as a writer of a television program for children called Chuckles the Chipmunk merely because he found it revolting — a reason that others find inadequate as an excuse for his remaining unemployed.

He is living in contented and slovenly idleness with his precocious twelve-year-old nephew played by William Neish — who tries to needle his uncle by reading him want-ads from the newspapers — when a team of investigators from a child welfare agency arrive to check on his suitability to bring up the boy.

One of the investigators, a humorless bureaucrat named Albert played by Tom Kunesh, is readily disposed of by the ex-TV writer's refusal to be serious about anything. However, the other member of the social agency team, a pretty newcomer to social work, Sandra, played by Deirdre Moore, is charmed by the writer's daffy habit of meeting everything in life with a gag, by his view that the world is merely a circus with a thousand clowns tumbling out of a trick automobile.

The comedy's plot reveals how her enchantment with the maverick's irresponsibility in the end turns him into a responsible fellow. The play's many chuckles arise from the head-on conflict between the jocular viewpoint of a man who insists on kidding everything, and that of the disapproving representatives of society, with their social-welfare jargon, who think able-bodied people ought to be gainfully employed.

"A Thousand Clowns" is being presented Thursday through Sunday with cocktails and dinner served at 6:00 p.m. and curtain at 8:00 p.m.: Sunday's dinner and curtain one half hour earlier. Reservations are advised and can be made by calling 649-3388.

A horsewoman of our acquaintance who has had many fine years of experience with horses tossed off the remark, "The primary purpose of longeing is to teach the horse obedience." This so astounded us that we have embarked on the writing of a book about longeing.

Longeing is practically a fad. Yet few people longe their horse productively or understand what longeing can do or how it works. Many, many people longe their horses poorly, being unfair to the horse, and actually harming his body.

The purpose of longeing is suppleness. Longeing is an exercise to flex the horse's body so that each motion of its legs involves the whole structure of its bones and skeleton in harmonious motion. Motion in the vertical plane involves corresponding flexion motions. Motion in the lateral plane involves lateral flexions.

All other benefits of longeing are side benefits. Suppleness is the goal. In order to obtain suppleness, however, the horse must be longed with proper engagement of the quarters. In order to achieve proper engagement of the quarters it is necessary to bring the horse's head down and stretched for forward balance.

In a popular magazine this month, an article on longeing goes into the nauseous "stand here, hold the whip there," sort of directions and shows a horse longeing in a halter. A horse cannot longe properly in a halter because when he leans his head down for forward balance he finds no support there.

A longeing cavesson is an absolute must for longeing. A person who is unwilling to invest in proper equipment will not be able to longe his horse properly, will harm it by trying to longe the horse improperly and should not try.

In a longeing cavesson, the horse "leans" into the handler's hand to find support. The handler encourages this support and the trust with which the horse seeks it. He never longes on a slack line nor with a stiff arm. Keeping his elbow and wrist bent he drives the horse into the longeline with such impulsion that supportive tension is maintained on the line.

It would be easy for the beginning horse to seek to maintain this tension by many small quick steps and by allowing the inner legs to drop into the circle. The handler prevents this by timing the very small motions of the whip with which he drives the horse. A flick on the inside fetlock just after swing off when the leg is extended its utmost to the rear causes the horse to carry that leg through a longer arc — to engage it. A flick of the whip just before swing off while the inner hind is still weight bearing causes the horse to lift the leg more quickly — to speed up. Rarely do we wish a horse to speed up. The most productive gait is the slowest one at which the inner hind hoofprint tracks the inner fore hoofprint on the line of the circle while the horse is latterally bent to the circumference of the circle.

To travel in this manner is fatiguing to the horse unless he does so rhythmically. Should the horse move unevenly, his lungs and heart will be unable to keep up a sufficient supply of oxygen to the working muscles which will result in the cramps of oxygen debt. This will make a horse resistive and further work will not be possible. The horse should not be punished for what is not his failing.

The horse can be taught rhythm from the first longeing session and this makes development of a productive working gait very much easier. We use our voice as a bridging signal for a carrot reward. In practice, the bridging signal becomes a reward... the horse salivates as he continues to work with the confidence that he is working well.

Even with the horse working rhythmically, inner hind tracking inner fore, head lowered leaning on handler's support (this may be later supplanted by side reins.) and having the back bent to the circle, longeing can be counter productive if the circle is too small. In too small a circle, the horse's scapula cannot remain parallel to one another but one must brace against the other for ground support. In too small a circle, the patella must perform a rotatory motion as well as forward and backwards, in order to drive the horse in what must necessarily be a series of straight lines around the circumference. The horse must be worked in as large a circle as can support productive motion.

The size of the productive circle is determined by watching the inner patella joint by the angulation of the horse's quarters and by his size. The handler must watch the inner patella joint. In too large a circle, it will not flex; the leg will swing instead from the hip joint with little or no corresponding spinal motion. In too large a circle, the weight of the longeing tape alone will prevent a horse from putting proper tension into it and finding support. The too large circle is not as counter productive to the horse's anatomy as the too small circle but it is a waste of time and effort from which it may be difficult to retrain him to productive longeing.

The suppleness developed by the longeing exercise is apt to develop the horse's muscles. This benefits his work under saddle and extends the years of soundness. The musculation process improves a poor animal's appearance as well.

As useful byproducts, longeing improves a horse's appearance, way of going, flexibility and strength. The trust which allows him to lean upon a handler's hand may be extended into other trusting relationships with humans. The rhythm of lungs, heart, and legs working together gives a horse confidence which carries over into many forms of mounted training, i.e. boldness over fences, surefootedness cross country.

Yes he does learn obedience too. The use of a bridging signal allows the horse to acquire quite a useful "vocabulary" of commands. To teach a horse to longe for obedience sake however would be like teaching a child to read in order to make the child sit quietly. Yes that is one result but that's not the purpose of the exercise.

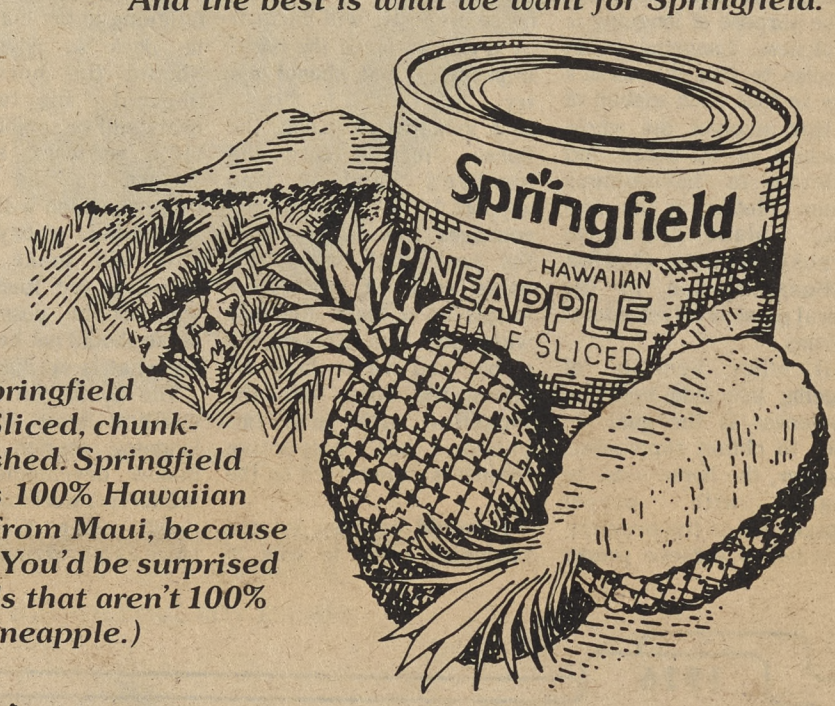
True. We're a little old-fashioned.

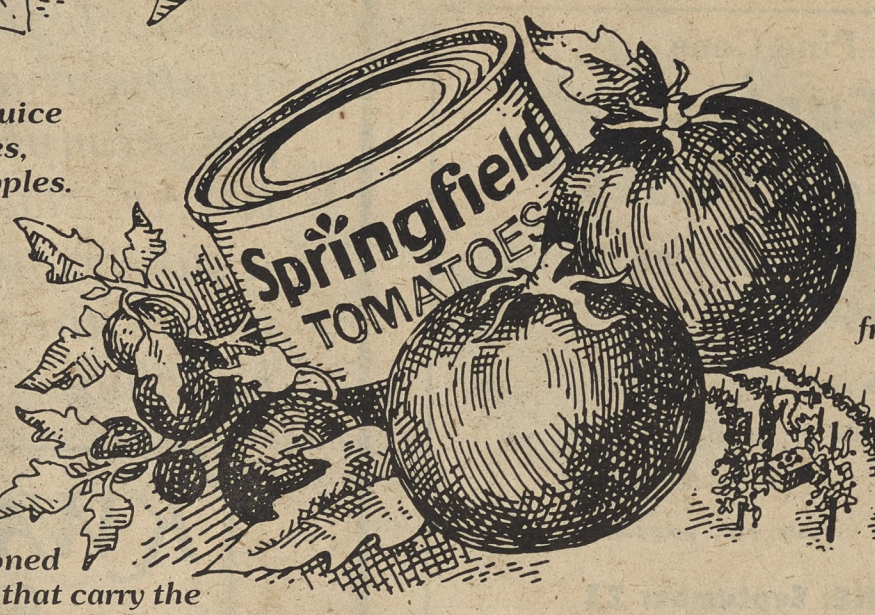
We're also fussy. We think too much of our Springfield brand to be any other way.

Maybe it's a little old-fashioned to go all the way to the Willamette Valley in Oregon to get our Blue Lake Green Beans. But the Willamette Valley has a reputation for growing the best green beans. And the best is what we want for Springfield.

Or consider Springfield Apple Juice. It's juice from Washington State apples, and only Washington State apples.



Or take Springfield pineapple. Sliced, chunk-style or crushed. Springfield pineapple is 100% Hawaiian pineapple. From Maui, because we're fussy. (You'd be surprised at the brands that aren't 100% Hawaiian pineapple.)



As for our canned whole tomatoes? We buy all of them from the San Joaquin Valley, because that's where tomatoes get to be the most tomato-y.

You get the idea. We're old-fashioned enough to care about the products that carry the Springfield label. And fussy enough to search for quality wherever we can find it.

Maybe that's why Springfield is the best-selling food brand in over 2,000 stores. In any event, we think it's reason enough for you to look for our current Springfield "Love the Price" specials at your store. It's kinda nice to be able to try something special when the prices are special, too.

Padres impressive in Red-Grey game

By ART BLACK, JR.

For the first time in Carmel High School football history, the Padre frosh took part in a Red-Gray Game last Saturday at Carmel High's Bardarson Field, and despite the 0-0 tie in the controlled scrimmage half, they looked impressive for the first contact outing this season. The JVs battled to a 6-0 Red victory behind the coaching of Big John Whittaker, and the varsity intersquad scrimmage produced a 9-6 victory for the Gray squad.

In the first contest, neither team scored in what was a very evenly divided freshman scrimmage. The frosh line looked good, with excellent size, but the team as a whole lacked the speed of last year's freshman eleven. Freshman coach Jack Ellena cited the interior line as being good on offense and defense, but admitted that the game tomorrow night at Watsonville will be tough.

"Watsonville has a game under its belt already — this will be our first," said Ellena.

"Slow and sloppy" was the way coach Frank Lynch characterized his junior varsity after the Red-Gray game. Lynch explained that he was not entirely happy with the performance turned in by the Red and Gray squads last Saturday, and added that, like the freshmen, the JV would be going into Watsonville one game behind their hosts. Watsonville beat Santa Cruz 25-20 last weekend in the Monterey Bay League preseason schedule. Looking good at the Red-Gray game for the JVs, however, were Bruce Robinson, who scored the only points in the game with a four-yard touchdown dash; back Lee Geiger (who turned 17 last Friday); and linebacker (also defensive guard) Paul St. Germain, a sophomore whose real forte is emulating Dave Rader or Johnny Bench. The Red squad was victorious in the matchup last Saturday, which makes coach John Whittaker a coach with a very special winning streak — two Red-Gray contests consecutively. Both Whittaker and varsity coach Charlie Davis volunteer their time to spend with the football program, which makes them special coaches indeed. The junior varsity begins their schedule tomorrow evening at 6:00 at Watsonville High School.

The varsity game last Saturday at Bardarson Field was a 9-6 battle which saw the Grays take an early 3-0 lead with a 28-yard field goal by Padre soccer star Kelly Beckett, a senior in his first year of football. The Reds came back with a touchdown by Kevin Murphy, senior track star and football running back. Murphy nabbed a pass from junior quarterback Tim Poehlmann and ran it in for the only six points the Red squad could muster in the afternoon. The extra point attempt for the Reds by Kelly Ragan was blocked. The scoring for the afternoon was completed with a Guy DuBets fifteen-yard TD pass to Bob Ingram. Coach Jason Harbert commented on the game by mentioning that there were many penalties and fumbles, but that this was to be expected for the first scrimmage of the year (under game conditions). Harbert went on to cite Steve Sepersky, a junior, and Neil Vandervort, a sophomore, for their running for the Grays, and Mark Porch and Brent Baysinger for their work in the line. J.J. "Hot Dog" Jinishian was also singled out for his running.

High Team in the Vegetable Judging contest was the Boronda Club. Accepting the plaque on behalf of the Club was Gordon White, whose Beef and Sheep projects both placed first.

Laura Wilson, senior 4-H Club member from the Buckeye Club, is awarded the trophy at the Bank of America Awards Breakfast for her 1,235 pound Grand Champion beef which was purchased by Del Monte Hyatt House of Monterey for $2 per pound. Allan Tarp of Salinas presented the trophy on behalf of his mother. Also winner of the reserve champion which brought $1 for each of its 1,231 pounds from Carl Joseph Maggio, Inc. of King City, Laura easily qualified for the 1976 all around winner at the Monterey County Fair.

Valley man in on seizure

Coast Guard Seaman Apprentice Daniel G. McDonald, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. McDonald III, of Los Ranchitos, Carmel Valley, CA., has participated in the seizure of three Japanese fishing vessels while on a fisheries law enforcement patrol off the coast of Alaska.

McDonald is a crewmember of the Coast Guard Cutter Rush, which apprehended the vessels after observing them illegally taking salmon in U.S. waters. The three vessels were boarded by crewmembers of the Rush and taken to Adak, Alaska to be turned over to U.S. authorities.

Rush also aided the pilot of a small plane on an around-the-world trip who was forced to ditch his plane in the Bering Sea. The pilot was picked up by a Japanese vessel and transferred to the Rush whose helicopter flew him to Adak.

A 1975 graduate of Carmel High School, he joined the Coast Guard in April 1976.

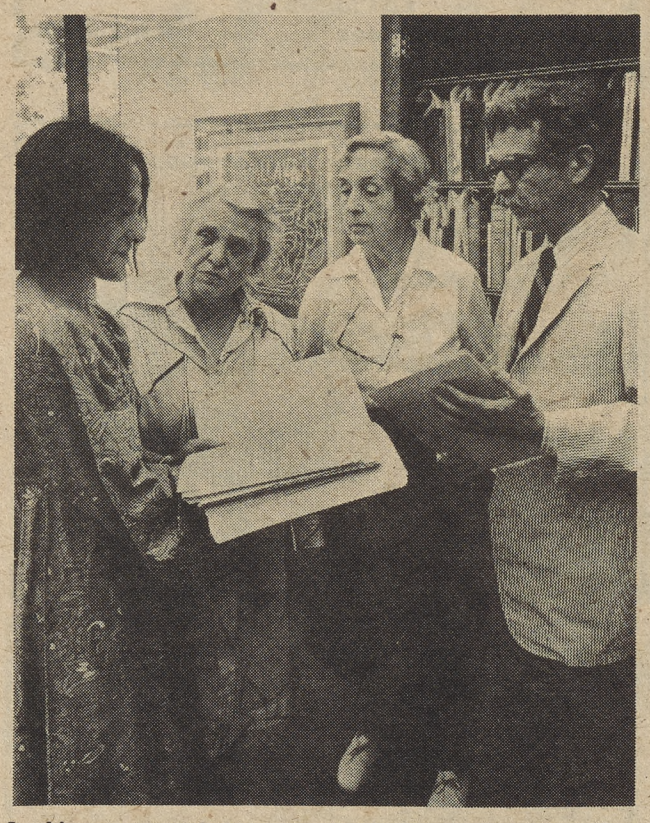
Valleyite makes gift to UCSC



Looking over a holograph of Elizabeth Butler Gainer's family reminiscences are Rita Bottoms, Associate Librarian and Head, Special Collections, University Library; Mrs. William Julian, granddaughter of the author; Mrs. Roy V. Sowers, chairman of Acquisitions Committee, Friends of the UCSC Library; and David Heron, university librarian.

SANTA CRUZ — A unique bicentennial gift — the original holograph of her grandmother's family reminiscences — has been made to the University Library at UC, Santa Cruz by Mrs. William Julian of Carmel Valley, California.

The 128-page document, handwritten by Mrs. Julian's grandmother, Elizabeth Butler Gainer, traces the history and genealogy of the families Butler, Jones, Morgan, and Thomas from 17th century Wales and England to the New World.

The account describes how these four families, generation by generation, took part in those events that established this country's independence and determined America's westward expansion.

The principal document, together with two typescript copies and supporting materials, including family photographs, a scrapbook, and several volumes of privately published family histories, is the first gift acquired for UCSC's University Library by the newly-formed Acquisitions Committee of The Friends of the UCSC Library.

The Committee was organized to encourage gifts of books and other materials to University Library collections, explains Chairman Margaret (Mrs. Roy V.) Sowers of Santa Cruz.

"The campus welcomes, and can make good use of such donations," says Mrs. Sowers. "Unlike older, established institutions," she notes, "UCSC is less likely to have duplicates of gift publications already in its holdings. Where duplicates occur, they can be channeled into the smaller reading libraries in UCSC's eight colleges which are totally dependent on donations for materials."

In the introduction to her 1915 manuscript, Mrs. Gainer, then 78-years-old, expresses her belief that "it is the duty, and should be a pleasure as well, for every generation to leave a record or some history for those that are to follow... In many families," she points out, "the dates in the old bible and those on the moss-covered slab in the old neglected cemetery are all they have that speak of ancestors long gone. How gladly would we put aside the cloud that obscures. We would need some statement of theirs that we might better judge of what manner of men they were whom we belong to..."

According to Mrs. Gainer, the Butlers, Joneses, Morgans, and Thomases first settled in Virginia, then branched out into Ohio, Indiana, Texas, Oregon, and California.

As she tells the tale of these colonists and early pioneers, a saga of American history unfolds. They fought in the Revolutionary, Civil, and Indian wars. They broke new ground in hostile wilderness to establish their farms, homes, schools, and churches. They dealt with changing attitudes towards slavery, temperance, religion, and women's rights. And they practiced the rigorous farming and homemaking techniques of the settler, some of which are described in detail in the Gainer manuscript.

Threaded throughout the author's story are anecdotal references to her grandmother, Sarah Morgan Butler, verbally portrayed as one of those redoubtable pioneers who struggled against seemingly insurmountable odds to extend America's boundaries ever westward.

In April of 1852, when grandmother Butler was 62, a grandson tried to dissuade her, because of her age, from joining a family wagon train then starting out on the torturous journey from Indiana to Oregon.

"Young man," she retorted, "suppose my people had stayed in Wales and England and enjoyed themselves, you would be a Tory today instead of an American. No, my people came to America, fit (fought) her battles, made her free, and it is our duty to go and do the same everywhere; build homes, schoolhouses, and churches and improve the gift they gave us and I am going."

Grandmother Butler made that journey, joining the roster of early pioneers who blazed the Oregon trail.

In the last part of her manuscript, Mrs. Gainer has copied an article written around the turn of this century by her brother, Dan. Originally published in the Portland Oregonian (date not noted), it is titled, "An Oregon War or a review of thrilling Experiences of a pioneer in the Early History of the State by the Hon. D.W. Butler."

"Mrs. Julian's gift contains generous nuggets of genealogical and historical information of value to students, scholars, and researchers," states University Librarian David Heron. "It is an important and human document, and we are fortunate to have it among our Special Collections holdings."

The gift manuscript is now available for reference use in Special Collections at UCSC's McHenry Library. Supporting materials, including the private press publications on the family histories of the Thomas family of Bucks Co., Pennsylvania, the Morgans of West Virginia, and a volume on the Greele, Greely, and Greeley genealogy, are to be added to the collection at a later date.

Lions club plans project

A Carmel Valley Lions Club board meeting held at the home of Lion Gary Kitt on Monday evening, Sept. 12, 1976, at which plans were finalized for the White Cane Day project on Oct. 1 and 2 in the Carmel Village area.

Lions and their ladies will be selling the familiar White Canes at local stores, banks and the post office. All proceeds will go to the Eye Conservation and Eye Glasses funds for local residents in need of glasses or eye care.

The local club is also a member of the Eye Foundation at the Presbyterian Hospital in San Francisco.

Plans also discussed for the local clubs annual Pancake Breakfast to be held on Sunday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Carmel Valley Community Youth Center, on Ford Road and Carmel Valley Road. Price is a very nominal $1.75 for the adults and $1.25 for children. Tickets can now be obtained from any member of the local Lions Club.
